

Bristol Old Vic Theatre School

ONE YEAR MA IN PROFESSIONAL ACTING (INTERNATIONAL)

Our new Four Term MA in Professional Acting* has been designed specifically for international acting students and practitioners who wish to deepen and extend their approach to acting through an intensive conservatory year at one of the UK's leading drama schools.

We take a maximum of fourteen students who we feel are able to benefit fully from our approach. The course is stretching, both in terms of the work undertaken on the "actor's instrument" and in the detailed approach to acting through text.

We will be auditioning in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Toronto, Sydney and here in Bristol – please visit our website at www.oldvic.ac.uk for details.

Bristol Old Vic Theatre School

Opened in 1946 by Sir Laurence Olivier, The Bristol Old Vic Theatre School is small in size but with an international reputation. Its graduates include Jeremy Irons, Sir Patrick Stewart, Daniel Day-Lewis, Greta Scacchi, Pete Postlethwaite, Jeremy Northam, Alex Jennings, Mark Strong and Naomie Harris.

Its training links contemporary acting approaches to a deep exploration of classical and modern texts.

Bristol is an historic, vibrant and culturally rich city in the South-West of England within easy reach of Bath, Stratford-upon-Avon and London.
